The Park Board has done its duty. East River Park is to be lighted, if a c. M. of Saturday, Aug. 9. No letters resolution, unanimously adopted by that body can bring about that much-desired result.

It now only remains for the Gas Commission to provide the lights requested to be placed in the Park by the Park Commissioners.

Three members of the Board-President Gallup and Commissioners Robb and Hutchins were present when the gavel fell at to-day's meeting. Commissioner Borden appeared later.

It was Commissioner Robb's first appearance in the Board room since his return from Europe.

This was the story about which The Evening Work of the Asylum this morning.

Dr. Baar summoned Babcock before him and asked why he wont to outsiders with the story.

Because it was done in so deliberate a fashion as to lead me to believe it was an old trick. I followed my course in the interests of justice.

At this point, B. A. Smith, who has charge of the estate of James H. Parker, doing the work on the Asylum, remarked to Dr. Baar:

Many small burgaires have been reported in Brooklyn during the past month, but they have been the work of amateurs. The coolness of the men engaged in the affair this morning indicate that they are professionals, and the Brooklyn detective force are exerting all their efforts to-day to get a clue to their identity.

"I hire men to do the work on this building and not criticise the management of the Asylum. James, all I can say to you is to go back and finish your work to-day and report to my office to-night."

The burglars must have entered the house at about 1.45 o'clock. They got in by prying open the iron grating leading to the cellar.

say to you is to go back and finish your work to day and report to my office to night."

To get at the bottom of the affair, Dr. Baar permitted The Evenino World reporter to make a free and full investigation.

Two cases of cruel treatment of the little ones by their older and stronger companions were discovered. One was the affair witnessed by Babcock Tuesday, and the other happened Wednesday.

Eight-year-old Jesse Joseph said he was struck on the head and mouth with a stick by Abe Salisch Tuesday,

"Did he hurt vou, Jesse?"

"Yeth," barely murmured the child, looking scared to death.

"What had you done?"

"Nothin'. He struck me with his fist in the mouth, too."

The child's face showed two or three scratches.

This was the assault witnessed by Babcock.

The bright eyes of seven-year-old Emanuel Hirsch were filled with fear when Dr. Baar called him from the ranks. His tender upper lip was badly discolored and bruised.

"Who struck you?" queried the reporter.

"He did," lisped little Emanuel, point-
